During May 2019, production at Lake Bonney 2 and 3 was curtailed by the network operator in order to allow unscheduled maintenance to be performed at South East Transformer Number 2, located near these wind farms. This maintenance has now been completed.

As electricity flows through the transmission and distribution networks, energy is lost due to electrical resistance and the heating of conductors. Production Generated from Owned Assets is subject to marginal loss factors that are fixed annually by the Australian Energy Market Operator to account for these network losses.

Monthly Production Generated in prior Financial Years for Infigen's Owned Assets<sup>4</sup>

Further details in relation to Production Generated from Owned Assets is reported in Appendix 1. Further details in relation to Production Sold from Owned Assets is reported in Appendix 2.

About Infigen Energy

Infigen is leading the clean energy transition in Australia. Infigen sources and generates renewable energy, increases the value of intermittent renewables by firming, and provides customers with clean, reliable and competitively priced energy solutions.

Infigen generates renewable energy from its owned wind farms in New South Wales (NSW), South Australia (SA) and Western Australia (WA). Infigen also sources renewable energy from third party renewable projects under its 'Capital Lite' strategy. Infigen increases the value of intermittent renewables by firming them from the Smithfield Open Cycle Gas Turbine facility in Western Sydney, NSW, and its 25MW/52MWh Battery in Lake Bonney, SA, where commercial operations are expected in Q1FY20.

Infigen's energy retailing licences are held in the National Electricity Market (NEM) regions of Queensland, New South Wales (including the Australian Capital Territory), Victoria and South Australia.
